What They’re Saying

“I can now clearly see why the U.S. has some of the best technological companies in the world. It is a mix of workplace practices, freedom of expression and hard-work. I am glad that I was given a chance to experience U.S. culture and work practices with this program. I enjoyed the approach that is practiced in the company and US. It includes giving everyone a chance to speak up and actively listening to their ideas, encouraging colleagues to pursue their best and mentoring junior employees. I loved the diversity of skills, experience and cultural background there.”

– Mikita Sazanovich from Belarus interned at a tech company in Silicon Valley
