International Higher Education Forum 2027

Date: 19 -20 May 2027

Location: Senate House University of London

Number of delegates: approximately 300 attendees

This years programme features inspiring keynotes, high-level plenaries, and four breakout tracks, each unpacking the latest trends and strategies shaping the UK's approach towards international higher education, global mobility and student recruitment.

Beyond the engaging sessions, IHEF 2027 offers prime opportunities to connect with peers across the sector. Day one culminates in an exclusive networking reception at the historic Senate Hall, perfect for reflecting on the day's debates, igniting new ideas and collaborations in an relaxed setting.

International higher education forum is open to all and welcomes the experiences and insights from a range of colleagues from across the sector. However, this conference would be particularly useful for staff with responsibilities for international activity across student recruitment, transnational education, research and student mobility

Testimonials from the previous edition:

"This was a fantastic opportunity to learn from peers, get a really good perspective on issues facing the whole sector, share my own ideas, and make new friends. Everything you'd want from a conference."

"One of the highlight conferences of the year. It's the place where sector leaders come together, openly share insights, and tackle the vital questions—the 'could, should, would, might'—driving us toward a positive future for international education."

I found attending #IHEF2026 to be exceptionally insightful. At a time of profound global transformation—politically, technologically, and economically—it is critical for the sector to come together not only to identify emerging opportunities, but also to collaborate in addressing the complex challenges ahead.

"IHEF2026 was a fantastic event. IHEF topics are current and relevant for international higher education."
